Seen, Heard and Told

By The Editor

The bellyaching that soldiers and we parents of soldiers have done with regard to soldiers working for six bits a day while striking workmen tied up essential war industry bore fruit Tuesday night when President Roosevelt told strikers, as well as recalcitrant manufacturers, wherethebell to head in.

The United States had two courses with respect to the war in Europe to pursue: absolute neutrality or not. Our leaders chose the latter course which involved aid for the struggling Democracies. Right or wrong, that's the course, so we should pursue that course with all possible speed and vigor.

Mr. Roosevelt's speech broke the last link that connected our country with any kind of neutrality. We are at war, whether it is called that or not. Any half-hearted assistance to Britain will be suicidal. Let's now go whole hog.

We stopped by to see Mr. and Mrs. Jake Whitaker Sunday. The latter took great pleasure in showing us his growing patches, his chickens and ducks, and, greatest of all, his gas-fed "mule." Mrs. Whit, as usual, was so busy waiting on their trade that she could not stop. Jake's Place (which should have a "Mrs." in front of it) is a self-contained unit, as it produces most of the food that it ultimately serves its large coterie of patrons.

We are happy to report that even the bicycle riders now know there are traffic laws and traffic lights in Grenada. Most of them, we note, observe both. This situation has been the weakest part of our traffic regulations, but it has improved rapidly.

Well, the old lady lingers on in Grenada and I have not had the chance to publish the fine editorial I wrote about the ordinance which is now law, an ordinance that requires that the floors of all hog pens be made of concrete. She will be out of town sometime, and you'll split your sides laughing.

Rev. Aaron Bivins, colored, who could pray a melodious prayer and preach a sermon that would bring hell fire close enough to singe the britches of his hearers, has left Grenada.

As stated many times before, we heartily favor a manual training department for our students. The lack of skilled hands is one of the things that impede progress toward national rearmament.

Our school system lays too much stress on Latin and too little on lathing; too much on chemistry and too little on carpentry; too much on foolishness and too little on real training. We hope Grenada will lead the way from this condition.

We are always glad to hear of our friends receiving promotions, as Clarence Burt recently received, but he certainly will be missed here by his friends, but also his wise counsel on the city board will be missed. Good luck, old boy.

While the old lady, Harry and Horn and George Overseer Terrell will be struggling to get the paper out today, I expect I will be speeding toward Louisiana.

Frank Jones popped his head in the door a while ago. The one from Memphis, we hasten to say, to avoid confusion.

Well, it looks like we will get out just one more issue in the Chinch Den before we move up the street to the Rat Den.

While getting my luxurious locks trimmed and the stubble scraped from my face, Sax Weir told me a good many things that I cannot put in the paper.

The attention of the reader is invited to the article about the President's speech written by our inimitable contributator, Herbert B. Allen. This gentleman has an insight, given to few, into the reasons why the national and international wheels turn. We consider it a great privilege to have him devote a little of his spare time to writting articles for the GCW.

The Band Boosters have been raking in the money, we are happy to say. The special edition, the bingo game and the cake walk, all brought in the dough. The Mammy Minstrel scheduled for tonight will be a "scream". After that they are going to get up new subscribers for the GCW, and collect some past due subscriptions for us.

Jack Robinson, they say, made one of the finest talks ever heard at the Rotary Club Tuesday. He expects to return to his home in Chicago next Tuesday after a month's visit with his fellow war comrade, Captain O. W. Scott, of Duck Hill.

Oil? Oil? Oil?

Grenada has been agog with apparently reliable information that the Connecticut General well, near Haserway, three miles north of Grenada, will soon be "brought in." It is reliably reported that the geologist advised the immediate casing of the hole. It is also reliably reported that the casing are en route from Louisiana. Inasmuch as it costs money, and lots of it, to case a well, it can be safely stated that somebody, in better position to guess than us laymen, believe there's oil at Haserway.

When we move up the street into larger quarters, we hope gradually to add to our equipment so that we can do ANY kind of printing. As it is, we can do 90 percent of the printing jobs required here - even if we are not so hoggish as to want that great a part.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Perry Died on May 16th

Miss Mary Elizabeth Perry, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Oliver H. Perry, of Graysport, died in Grenada Hospital on May 16, 1941.

She was a member of the Presbyterian Church since early girlhood, and was known for her many kindnesses to her friends and neighbors.

Burial was had on Saturday at the Perry cemetery near Graysport. Rev. C. A. hParr, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Grenada, conducted the ceremonies. Messrs. Wayne Koonce, Rogers Parker, John Weir, H. G. Williams, Charles Perry and Henry Willis served as pallbearers.

She is survived by one brother, Z. E. Perry, of STuggart, Arkansas and one sister, MIiss Cornie Perry, of Graysport.

To the sorrowful ones we extend our sympathy.

Editor's Note: Details of the deceased's life and death reached us too late for insertion last week.

Army Camp For Grenada Likely

While the War Department does not actually commit itself to any course of action prematurely, the signs multiply that an army camp will be located in the Grenada area before Autumn.

Little items let slip by persons in authority; the letter that Mr. Allen received from General Marshall to the effect that the Grenada area was being examined by the War Department, and the periodic presence here of mysterious-looking army men, all tend to give credence to the theory that Grenada will indeed be selected as a camp site.

Wide valleys with the first bottoms sufficiently level for duty, yet above high water, with rugged lands beyond; transportation facilities furnished not only by the main line of the Illinois Central System and the real arterial highway, U. S. 51, as well as the fact that 51 Highway is above any conceivable overflow from the Mississippi River—an advantage that U. S. Highway 61 does not possess are a few of the advantages that are appealing to the officers charged with the location of another camp to care for the rapidly expanding U. S. Army.

What The President Really Said

By H. B ALLEN

Speaking in a grave tone of voice, and with great deliberation, Franklin Delano Roosevelt delivered the most momentous message of his remarkable career, to probably the greatest world radio audience in history.

Other governmental affairs of tremendous importance have engaged his attention—the banking crisis; chaos in agriculture, business and industry; and the vital necessity for controlling the recalcitrant United States Supreme Court, then packed by the sinister interests behind the discredited Harding administration. But on Tuesday night his subject was of more far reaching national and international importance than any with which Mr. Roosevelt has yet had to contend.

Woodrow Wilson made decisions of greater personal importance to his countrymen, due to the fact that his action in declaring war made the sending of an American Expeditionary Force to Europe inevitable. Because there will be no large scale expeditionary force sent abroad in the war now impending, the President's action will not exert so great an influence upon the careers of as many American young men and their families.

President Roosevelt's course, as outlined in his talk, has been in his mind for more than a year and a half. But opinion in many sections of the country, especially in the powerful middle western states, has made it necessary for him to wait until the course of events played more directly into his hands. Hitler has now brought the world to a point where all but the most stupid must acknowledge the dire emergency with which all democratic nations are now confronted.

What does the President's message forecast for the United States? In my opinion his meaning is clear and unequivocal. The United States is first taking industry and labor under almost immediate control.

The public is familiar with the dilemma which labor leaders have created in the national defense program. But for reasons which are peculiarly American, the public has no knowledge of the other side of the picture. But the truth is that the government has been put to correspondingly great embarrasment by powerful industrial interests.

The effect of the government's unpublicized difficulties with industry has also contributed to a great lag in our defense program, for the United States government, in normal times, has no power to compel industry to comply with the requirements of our Army and Navy.

This same situation arose in Canada. In the very city in which I was born, Hamilton, Ontario, the Canadian government had to take the strongest measures with Canadian industry and with Canada labor, in order to get done what must of necessity be done, in time of national peril. And Hamilton is one of the most aggressively patriotic cities in the British Empire.

In connection with my efforts to learn under what circumstances some light war industry might be secured for Grenada learned from one of Mr. Knudson's chief engineers, Mr. Pierce Williams, the basis on which the government makes contracts with large industries. I am not criticizing the provisions of these contracts, for complicated consideration enter into their terms.

The point is that the President was indicating his intention to exercise greater control over industrial production immediately, in our national interest. The labor situation is a matter much more simply handled, because less intricate and more clearly understood by the average man. Labor heard a strong voice, and will definitely comprehend the President's meaning.

It is now evident that this war is to be fought out principally in the air, and on the high seas. This fact brings the vital necessity for the protection of this country even more conspicuously into the fore ground. From the naval and military point of view, I understood the President to indicate the following course of action.

If the Germans bring increasing pressure upon the crushed and dispirited French, through the futile Petain in Vichy, and penetrate into French Morocco, and along the West African coast on the one hand; or make any further moves indicating the intention to invade Spain and Portugal, where they would acquire the bases to secure control of the Azoras, Canary, Maderia and Cape Verde Islands, lying several hundred miles west of the coast of Portugal and West Africa, then the United States fleet must occupy these islands, and dominate the west coast of Africa, before the eGrmans have time to acquire these spring-boards from which to direct attacks upon North, Central and South America.

From the Azore Islands, German bombers could easily attack the great Nary Yard at Norfolk, and the vast

Local Generating Plant Running

With the aluminum industries in Tennessee facing serious curtailment of activities due to lack of power from the TVA, which in turn is due to the lack of water in the TVA reservoirs, many stand-by generating plants, including the one at Grenada, have been placed in operation to shoot power into the high lines.

Editor's Note: It seems somewhat paradoxial that the TVA, which has fought private power companies with unremitting intensity, now is calling upon the step-children for power to operate defense industries.

A long tale quickly told: all of the college boys and girls who have not got home will soon get home.

Spring "Moving Day" Has Come and Gone

Spring "moving day" has come and gone for farm families in Grenada county, and the families are getting adjusted to new conditions on farms they will operate this year, or for several years in some cases, and some are getting used to types of living other than farm life.

Approximately 375 farm families in the county are financing their farm needs through rehabilitation loan program of the Farm Security Admnistration, and these loans are based on needs revealed through definite farm and home planning according to Mr. A. R. Summerour, local FSA Supervisor.

"The importance of their own farm and home planning is realized by those who finance themselves through Farm Security loans," said Mr. Summerour. "Even in the face of recent tough years which had many of these families flown to rock bottom, they are making good records of debt payments, and most of them declare definite planning is largely responsible for improvement shown.

"But one of the biggest stumbling blocks to effective farm planning is this thing of having to break up a farm interprise to start all over again on another farm," Mr. Summerour continued. "It actually costs an average of $50 to move," he said, "and there is another cash cost to each owner involved. But more than cash cost, there is the breaking up of wel-laid plans, of crop rotation and feed production, changing schools and neighborhood relations, and so on. Farmers, landowners, and the general public realize more than ever before that tenure security is important to the entire national economy."

For that reason, he explained, a lot of work has been done to develop leasing arrangements to stabilize farm tenure. Farm Security has flexible lease forms available at county offices for landowners and tenants, and has annual supplements to such forms to cover any particular cropping system or division of income from livestock or livestock products.

Mr. Summerour said it is the opinion of members of the local FSA advisory committee that if farm tenure in this county can be stabilized, both land and those who rent will be greatly benefitted. Unsatisfactory tenure conditions exist throughout the nation in varying degrees, he added, and every effort made to stabilize agriculture through improved tenure is an effort to stabilize the country and to strengthen it for national defense.

"Dallas C. Vandevere, acting director of the Farm Security Administration has been elected president of the Mississippi Rural Rehabilitation Corporation," A. D. Stewart, retiring president, announced today.

T. M. Patterson, Jackson official of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration was elected vice president; Marshall E. Cole, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. Nancy M. Coulan, assistant secretary-treasurer. Mr. Stewart will continue to serve as a director.

(Mrs. W. W. Whitaker)

Your attention is invited to an editorial, "A Black Eye" in this issue of our paper, written by the Hon. Clayton Rand, of Gulfport, a gentleman of the highest type, a thinker and writer known nationally, and a man perfectly at ease when discussing the more serious problems of present day conditions. We are acquainted with Mr. Rand, with his lovely wife and two fine sons, and we feel that his editorial is the tragic truth about Camp Blanding where "our" boys are encamped.

Please note that Mr. Rand says we have had ONE voice in Congress raised against the condition at Camp Blanding and that was the voice of a congressman from Michigan. Where are Mississippi congressmen and senators? Let us hope that whenever they (the congressmen and senators from Mississippi) do find out about the situation at Camp Blanding, they will lend their voice and influence to punish those responsible for the promotion of the sale and the purchase of such an unwhole some location for an Army Camp.

Mrs. Roger Frion and little son, Roger, Jr., were week-end guests of their mother and grandmother, Mrs. T. T. Hamilton and family.

SURPRISE PARTY

On Friday afternoon of last week, the ladies of the Presbyterian Church, planned a birthday party for one of their most beloved members and teacher of the Woman's Bible Study Class, Mrs. W. D. Salmon. This lovely affair was staged in the garden of Mrs. Will Hill's home at four o'clock in the afternoon.

Mrs. Salmon, who knew not of the plan, was asked to go for a ride about town by two of the members. When the charming garden of Mrs. Hill was reached, the ladies asked Mrs. Salmon to accompany them through the garden, presumably to enjoy the many lovely flowers grown there.

Upon entering the garden, they were greeted by a chorus of many voices singing "Happy Birthday to You." Mrs. Salmon was escorted to a place of honor and as she stood in the midst of her friends, many of whom she had taught in the primary classes of Sunday School, she was as a symbol of all those graces, love, graciousness, charity in her attitude towards everyone, and last but not least, of a true appreciation of the very beautiful courtesy of the occasion.

The chair placed for Mrs. Salmon was facing a table laden with many lovely birthday presents.

Truly, on this delightful occasion, it was difficult to say who was the happier, the honored guest, beloved Mrs. "Belle" Salmon or the many friends who look to her as their teacher and counselor.

PRESBYTERIAN AUXILIARY

The Woman's Auxiliary of the First Presbyterian Church held its annual Birthday Party on Monday afternoon in the basement of the church. The room was attractively decorated with spring flowers and in the center of the room was a large cake with 30 candles, signifying the number of years since the organization of the Woman's Auxiliary. Flags of America and Brazil were in evidence, showing the good will that exist between the two countries. A map of Brazil added further to the Brazilian atmosphere.

The meeting opened with the singing of "O Zion Haste." An impressive and well rendered devotional was given by Mrs. Tom Grant, followed by a solo, "My Task", by Miss Mary Louise West, with Mrs. Harry Adams, accompanist. Mrs. McKell presided in the absence of the president, and introduced the program with "Our Good Neighbor—Brazil." Mrs. Noble gave an explanation of the Brazilian Flag. Wid Merritt says there is a dead cat somewhere on the line in conecion with the Rudolph Hess pour out.

Many loud howls here about poor stands of garlic, carrots and spinach. The drought, which is serious, is blamed for it.

We made a pleasure trip to good old Coffeeville last week. The place where the latch string is ever hanging on the outside, and most every one you meet asks you to go home with them and eat. It was a treat to spend some of the time with Hon. G. E. Denley, whose keen wit and sane view of life helps drive dull care away. He admits he is a friend of Whitaker's GCW and never fails to call Mt. Nebo items. Mr. Denley has in spite of handicaps to start with made a success in life, financially and spiritually. He has helped make Coffeeville a better place to live in.

The old lady represents a splendid engraving firm. Give her a break by permitting her to order your engraved cards, announcements, etc. She certainly does try, and with great success, to give publicity to the social affairs of Grenada. The prices she offers are as cheap, if not cheaper than prices from other engraving outlets. Nobody in Grenada does engraving. All engraved products must be ordered from outside the state. Therefore, patronizing her will cost you nothing extra, and will give business to one who deserves it.

Most of the McCormicks were in town Saturday.

At this writing, the country needs rain badly, but there is nothing to do about it. Even Bilbo cannot control the weather.

Sugestion to WGRM: come back to Grenada where you can keep your feet dry.

In our series of articless, "What's Going On In Grenada," we are first to present articles covering institutions and industries that were not covered in a similar series of articles prepared in 1936 when the writer was editor of The Sentinel.

"One Price For All" is a slogan we have adhered to since we started in August, 1937. We have published issues that did not contain enough advertising to pay the rent, much less the printers, but we have never cut a price. Why dig a ditch into which we might fall later on?

In advertising with us, you can be sure that you are not getting a better or greater price than your competitor. We feed everyone from the same bottle with the same spoon.

Brother Beckum was a recent caller. He, like Solomon, takes great care of his hirsute adornment. Hope no Delilah gets after him and trims those whiskers.

It looks like we have learned a lesson that all successful newspapermen eventually learn: to let the politicians alone, and look after the newspaper business. All one gets from politicians is grief and more of it. I may tear my shirt for the GCW, but no more will I tear my shirt for some sorry politician or even for a statesman.

Thanks to our advertisers (and to five issues in May), we have enjoyed one of our best months in May.

Wonder if the City of Grenada ever has any printing to be produced? We can find little evidence lately, since I got off the board.

Mrs. Jake Whitaker threatened me with dire things if we cut her off. To be on the safe side, she paid up.

Help us keep Horn and Greenfield busy over the week-end by letting us do some printing. The following week-end after this one we expect to be busy moving away from the Roach Dea

We sorter hate to go off and leave the chinces and roaches here

Little Pritch Horton spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Horton, in Grenada. Pritch works in the Veterans Administration under Dr. Speir. Both of them report that they are ardent readers of the GCW and that does not make us very angry.

One of our Graysport subscribers, Miss Willie McCaslin, sought and readily obtained the privilege of renewing.

The cooler weather Sunday was welcome. Personally we can stand more of it.

Allen and I visited the Kraft place the other night, but all of them must have been abed as no lights were showing.

If we had ONE price for ONE advertiser and ANOTHER price for ANOTHER advertiser, it would not be long before none of them had any confidence in us, and we would have no respect for ourselves.

Preacher Thrower had to set out several extra plates over the week-end

There is no use in car dealers becoming panicy about their stock of used cars. With new car production for 1942 models cut over 80 percent, and with the probability of greater cuts in the future, and with greater and greater demand for reliable motor transportation, the time is not far off when all good used cars will be like money in the bank

With the supply of new cars being cut, it is going to be up to the increasing number of car users to do one of two things, viz: use the expert facilities of the garagemen or buy good overhauled cars

Six bits a day for the drafted man who MUST do, and a dollar or two dollars an hour for the dissatisfied striker. This does not make any sense, yet unhappily this condition exists

Runt Mohead was back in Grenada Saturday to get some more of his toofies pulled. If he wants some false teeth, he can get some cheap from either Sam Mims, Lee Taylor or me.

As usual lying and fishing started at the same time this year.

In advance we solicit the cooperation of the heads of our industries and institutions to the end that we may present a true picture of "What's Going On In Grenada". This series of articles will not only awaken the outside world to the importance of Grenada, but will give Grenada people themselves an idea of the blessings we enjoy. It is surprising how little the average person knows of what is going on beyond his own limited sphere.

HOLCOMB NEWS
By The Editor

They are trying to bring the sinners to salvation at the forceful revival conducted by Brother Beverly.

More news next week.

Curtis McCalop has erected a new filling station across the highway from Norris'. This is six months old, but news to me.

Grandpaw and Grandmaw McRee are pretty busy helping look after their new grandchildren; but this duty has interferred very little with grandpaw's fishing.

It looks like we will have a fine new gymnasium building soon.

Slim Norris has a new wife, and quite a pretty one.

Grandpaw and Grandmaw Norris attended preaching Monday night.

We have not got our rural carrier business settled yet.

Volney Nason has not quite got reconciled to all this government business yet—and never will, in our opinion.

In passing, we noted that Whit Singleton was still up at 9 o'clock.

That negro graveyard on the Guy place still looks spooky at night.

Fulton McRee's dogs are getting pretty thin since school closed. Of course, they get an occasional meal from the hen nests and duck nests.

MT. NEBO MAKES START TOWARD S. S.

The people of this community went out to Mt. Nebo Methodist Church last Sunday and started a Sunday School. We took our lesson at its face value. "Overcoming Prejudice" and combined Baptist, Presbyterian and Methodist into a union Sunda school. I saw a most willing crowd to work, Mr. Jack Gray, Superintendent offered several suggestions to arouse interest and we are hoping with the continued guidance and leadership of the spirit that our Sunday school will grow from week to week until the whole community will be on a boom for the extension of the Lord's Kingdom.

Come out next Sunday morning at 10:00 o'clock, we need you and you need the Sunday School.

What's Going On In Grenada

This the third of a series of articles dealing with the industries and institutions of Grenada which make for Grenada's progress and prosperity. These articles, too, will answer the pessimist who says, "We aint got nothing in Grenada."

Phillips Lumber Company

The almost constant stream of trucks bringing in rough lumber from the "groundhog mills" in the interior and the steady stream of freight cars laden with finished dressed lumber at the Phillips Lumber Company plant in South Grenada refute the statement, often heard, that there is no more timber in this section, while the steady employment at good wages of many men and the constant bustle of activity at the local plant belie the statement that "we aint got nothing in Grenada."

The Phillips Lumber Company, of which the J. R. Phillips family, of Eupora is owner, bought out the plant of the D. L. Fair Lumber Company in February, 1940 and has been in operation almost constantly since the change in ownership.

At the present time approximately 45 persons are employed in the plant. The weekly payroll ranges between $800 and $1000. But this is less than half the tale of how this industry benefits. This plant takes most if not all of the output of 22 small mills, located near the standing timber in this and adjoining counties. Each of these mills has its complement of mill workers, timber cutters, truckers, etc. The Phillips Lumber Company pays out to the owners of these smaller mills about $5,000 per week. As this money is paid out right here in Grenada, a great deal of it finds its way into the channels of trade of Grenada. These smaller mills have to have repairs made to their equipment, and most of this is done in Grenada; they have to buy gasoline and oil and these items, too, are bought here. So, in the last analysis, most of the $1000 paid out at the local mill and the $5000 paid out to the smaller mills enters the business channels of this city, and thus helps make Grenada the progressive, prosperous town it is.

As to the volume of lumber shipped, it was stated that about 14 cars of dressed lumber per week represented the average shipment in recent months, though in the immediate past, while the company is engaged in filling a huge government order destined for Panama, the number of cars per week has been stepped up to about 18. Normally 40 hours per week is the working time, but on recent war orders 78 hours has been the rule.

This mill is the concentration point for the products of the small mills, located "in the timber", and this mill handles no logs at all, but takes the rough lumber from the small mills, planes it, cuts it to standard lengths, grades it, and loads it aboard cars. Of course, the green lumber as it comes from the woods has to be stacked on the yard for a suitable period of drying and seasoning. When in full operation, as it was during the visit of the writer Tuesday afternoon, an individual board does not rest from the time it is taken from the drying sticks until it is layed with hundreds of similar pieces in a freight car, in the meantime having been sawed to standard length by one crew, run through the planer by another, inspected by another, loaded on "buggies" and wheeled to the car door. The car that we saw being loaded was a 36 foot car, and its contents after reaching New Orleans will be loaded aboard ship for some military use in Panama. The present order from the government amounts to approximately 2,000,000 feet—quite a bunch of lumber in itself. This order is being filled from Mr. Phillips' two plants.

This company sells lumber both wholesale and retail. While there we saw a pick-up truck buying perhaps 150 feet of dressed lumber, and a large truck being loaded with about 5,000 feet of No. 3 lumber for some customer in Memphis.

The Phillips Lumber Company is neither the greatest nor the smallest contributator to Grenada's growth and prosperity, but is an important factor in this matter.

Let Them Take Their Own Medicine

If we were a young, vigorous member of Congress and had no financial obligations that would prevent our family being cared for, we WOULD NOT vote to send the young men of America to war UNLESS we ourselves volunteered our services. We would not prescribe a dose that we ourselves would not take.

In the lower house especially, we have many young men, strong, vigorous and financially able to take care of their wives while they are in service. If we were such a man we would be ashamed to face our constituents, seeking reelection, if we voted to send other young men to war and failed to volunteer.

President Roosevelt's two sons have volunteered. Governor Johnson's youngest son has volunteered. These two executives furnish mighty good examples to the young and vigorous members of the Congress.

Of course, Pat Harrison is too old and too short winded for military service. Bilbo is too old and too pot bellied to pass the physical examination. But we have several members of the Mississippi delegation to the lower house who WOULD qualify.

What about it, boys?

A Remarkable Record

Miss Lizzie Horn, Principal of the Elementary School, and her secretary just completed checking in the state-owned text books for the lower grades in the city schools.

These ladies handled 4,372 text books, and NOT ONE was missing.

Those figures carry their own tale of efficiency. These ladies are to be highly commended for such a remarkable record.

Right, Brother Hight

Our friend Whit Whitaker has instituted a new department in his Grenada Weekly, the "What's going On In Grenada," column. I betcha Whit doesn't fulfill his title and tell ALL that goes on in Grenada, I betcha.—Winston County Journal.

You are right, Brother Hight. If we told even ONE-THIRD what we know, we would be run out of town.

Cotton, No Longer King

The small farmers and the tenants of Grenada county have no alternative but to seek and find some other crop, which their land, their tools, their workstock and their own knowledge are capable of producing. Cotton is no longer King in the hill sections of Dixie. With restricted acreage and the loss in foreign markets, the distressing low standard of living current among producers of hill cotton will continue to become lower unless some other crop is found to replace cotton.

It's all right to say, "Oh, we can turn to cattle." This may solve the problem for the large landowner, but what of the man who makes his living with his one-horse turning plow, his shovel-stock, gee whizz and hoe. This little fellow cannot make anything with cattle for, in the first place, he has no land, and, if he had a small acreage, he would have difficulty in getting a herd of cattle started.

There are just a few who can go into the cattle business; there are the many who depend upon their own labor and that of one mule and upon elementary tools. That "little fellow" MUST be helped to find some crop that HE can produce with profit.

Frankly we do not know what other crop would be suitable to the "little man's" limited man-power, horse-power, and limited capabilities. Some Messiah may arise to show the way.

Awaiting With Interest

We await with interest the findings of the engineering firm employed by the city to make a survey of the power situation here to determine, among other things, the cost of a generating station, the cost of a distribution system, a proposed rate structure which would yield a profit and would eventually pay for the generating and distribution system, and to make a canvass of the electric consumers of Grenada to determine which of them would use city power if it were as cheap or cheaper than the power now being used.

This survey will cost Grenada only $500. This leads us to one of two beliefs: first, that Grenada is getting an unprecedented bargain at a time when skilled engineers are at a premium from demands by defense projects, or, second, that the survey when and if made will not be much of a survey.

That the firm undertaking to make THAT survey for $500.00 will, if called upon, make another survey to determine the value of the existing distribution system, with its thousands of meters, poles, transformers, etc., and its hundreds of miles of wire (giving critical examination of each thing to determine its value) for $200.00 additional, adds to our belief that Grenada is either getting a wonderful bargain, or that THIS survey when and if made will not be much of a survey.

A Black Eye . . .

The only real dirty spot I found in Florida was Camp Blanding. The Michigan Congressman who said the men responsible for that location should be tried for treason put it mildly.

The camp site is fifteen feet below the lake level around which it is built, and millions of dollars spent in filling in. Where there was mud waist deep a year ago it is now dust a foot deep. And compared to Camp Shelby, Camp Blanding is a kind of concentration camp. As many as 500 soldiers have been hospitalized at one time and there are usually about 1500 of them out of 30,000 under treatment. Camp Blanding has a magnificent hospital.

With all the millions of acres of cut-over land in Florida, no worse site could have been chosen for Camp Blanding, unless it had been located somewhere in the middle of the Everglades. The surrounding terrian is unsuitable for soldering because it is monotonously flat, and the whole setting is one conductive to the undermining of the morale of young men who have been drafted to defend their country. It is a pity that some one with official authority in Mississippi does not make a close hand investigation in behalf of the Mississippi boys who are down there.

Camp Blanding was a real estate deal in which many higher ups pulled political strings to cash in on defense. When Senator Claude Pepper addressed the editors at Jacksonville on the theme of "Saving Democracy," many editors would like to have asked him about Camp Blanding, for it was primarily created to save "Democrats."

It may be said in behalf of Camp Blanding that its officers are making the most of a bad situation and that the soldiers there are doing their darndest. The food is good and the men are bronzed and tough. But you can't build the morale of a soldier by subjecting him daily to 24 hours of dirst and dust. Hitler knows better than that. One of the rumors current in Washington is that the first American boys to "go over" will land at Dakar for an African campaign where the issue will be met. The most optimistic viewpoint that can be taken of Camp Blanding is that it may be training soldiers to carry on in an African desert.

It might be stated further, as an observation, that half the men in the infantry at Camp Blanding are using hemp ropes instead of shoulder straps to carry their guns and that the men are unable even to get blank cartridges to aid a little zest to their sham battles. And still men who are manufacturing the material that soldiers need for training strike with the apparent approval if not encouragement of the government.

Is it any wonder that Mussolini says that our particular kind of democracy stinks? And you don't have to go way down to Camp Blanding to smell it either.

Whatever need we may have for ships, airplanes, bombers, tanks and guns, America needs honest government and a rebirth of patriotism and common decency. It's a terrible indictment against our politicians to think they would make thousands of our young men train in a dust bin that they might make a little "loose change" for their friends.

UNDER THE MAGNOLIA TREE

By Herbert B. Allen

There has been a great deal of history made in this twentieth century. And there has been an especially important historic event in this month of May, nineteen forty-one—The invasion of Crete by the Nazis.

Crete is an island of little significance to the world at large, and of no great consequence in the outcome of this present war. But what is taking place there, as these lines are written, will undoubtedly influence the future conduct of warfare, and also the strategy of defense against invasion. It may also have a bearing on the wisdom of building warships of very great tonnage—such as the British battleship Hood.

For up to this date, powerful naval units were able to protect friendly shores against enemy invasion. Now the Nazis have definitely proven that fully equipped divisions of soldiers, with their supplies and ammunition, and with all of the innumerable articles required by large military forces, can be transported and maintained by a strong air force—even when assisted by only weak naval detachments.

The loss of the giant battleship Hood was indeed sad news; but the loss of the Hood in May, was much less disastrous than would have been the case if this great warship had been sunk in the Mediterreanian five months ago. A battleship of this vast tonnage costs forty million dollars, and it is a severe loss when one is disabled or sunk. But the same forty million dollars invested in forty destroyers at one million dollars each would have been infinitely more valuable to England at this time.

We are reminded of the great sums of money invested years ago in dirigibles of the lighter than air type, such as the Shenandoah. When these large airships were lost they were dramatic tragedies which were a severe setback to aerial navigation at the time. When there is a flying accident involving one of the transport planes of the present day, the matter is soon forgotten. Similarly, the flying fortresses being constructed on the Pacific Coast, for the Army and for the RAF, also cost large sums of money to construct. The cost of each one of these bombers is half a million dollars. It would appear that half a million dollars would be better spent upon several large type bombers, rather than one super-size machine.

Every fighting branch of the service is affected by this invasion of Crete—naval, flying and land forces. The great effort which Germany has made to destroy our world has the most unfortunate effect of forcing her opponents to emulate and suppress her by the very methods which she employs. And from a soldier's standpoint, this parachute landing is a very dangerous adventure indeed. We very seriously doubt that Herr Hitler would care to risk his neck for Germany in the ranks of the parachute troops.

One of our great difficulties in democracies is to make changes soon enough after the necessity for a change has been made apparent to everyone. The lesson of the landing of entire German divisions on the Island of Crete is one which we trust will receive immediate attention in Washington and London.

For the lesson of Crete is most important. And the lesson of the entire war has now become apparent. The Germans have put their principal effort in the past few years upon their army. It is now manifest that the war is not going to be decided by armies in any theatre of operations. The decision will lie with the navies and with the air forces.

As this is written, the British have the overwhelming advantage from the standpoint of the superiority of the Royal Navy. It is only a matter of time until the United States Navy will be steaming, with decks cleared for action, and the crews at their battle stations. Thereafter the Anglo-American navy will have the facilities for doing all that is expected.

The Germans now possess air superiority, and that state of affairs will continue all this year. The tide will turn during the winter of 1941-42. In the spring of 1942 the combined aircraft production facilities of the United States, Canada and Great Britain will have placed in the hands of the RAF the numbers and types of planes which are required for the purpose of destroying the cities of Germany, and for wrecking the morale of the German people.

There are only two parts of the world that have to be held in order to make this victory possible by late 1942. The north Atlantic sea lanes from Canada to Great Britain must operate freely and safely. And the Australians and New Zealanders must be protected from Japanese invasion. The United States Navy is now attending to this latter zone unofficially, but nevertheless effectively!

The Germans built an army
Which is that nation's boast:
But sea power, and the air forces,
Will make the Germans roast.

Our friendly hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Jake Whitaker, recently received a letter from a former colored employee, which throws a great light on Mrs. Whitaker's cooking, as seen from a point of military vantage. In order not to adulterate the flavor of George's letter, it is passed along for your edification without editing. George has a style of his own!

George Caradine
Co. "B" 367th Infantry
Camp Clairborne, La

Mr. and Mrs. Whitaker,

I am well and hope that you all are the same. I doat like the army so well. Hope that you all don't thank hard of me for not writing before now. It is so many soldiers here until I couldn't get paper why I haven't written to you all before now. I hope you all have a good garden, because I will really be hungry when I get home.

How is George and the cow getting along? Does he still enjoy driving the tractor. I wsh I were a farmer instead of a soldier. Tell Mary Eliza I will really be something to look at when I get home.

Tell Mrs. Whitaker I thanks about her every time I set down to eat and when I get up to wash my plate. How is Mr. and Mrs. Jeff getting along and Mrs. Mary and Tommy.

Give my honor and respect to the whole family.

From,
George Caradine.

Next week we shall again try our hand at predicting the trend of the war. Under the head, "HOW ENGLAND WILL WIN" we shall again write on our favorite topic—England and Germany.

At the recent Flower Show, while examining some fragile old pieces of China, Mrs. Andrew Carothers was reminded of an experience of her sister, which will be appreciated for more than one reason. Mrs. Carothers' sister has some very old pieces which date back more than a century. She was anxiously imploring a colored maid to please handle the precious objects with great care while washing them. But the colored maid was not to be outdone by the lady's admonitions as to their great age, for she replied, "Yassum, I see's they's gettin' mighty thin."

Our genial and clever friend, Jack Robinson, who spoke before the Rotary and Lion's Clubs in Grenada recently, was once a columnist on the New York Telegram, the principal paper of the speculative and sporting fraternity in New York.

He tells one about the days when Tom Sharkey was in his prime as a boxer. We are not referring to the Lithuanian Jack Sharkey, of recent ring history, but to the original Irish version, who was a real champion.

Tom Sharkey was in the mood for some sea food, so he dropped into a New York restaurant and ordered a live lobster to be prepared. When the lobster was served, the observant Jack Sharkey noted that one claw was missing and invited the waiter's attention to the missing part.

"Mr. Sharkey, these lobsters are fighters, and I suppose this lobster tangled with another lobster, and lost one of his claws in the battle," replied the waiter. Sharkey looked at the lobster once more, glanced up at the waiter and demanded: "Take this bum away and bring me the guy that won!"

Ex Service men might enjoy the following general orders—it seems that they originated in battery "C" 114th F. A.—maybe they were picked up by the Tupelo lunch, anyway they are:

1. To get my discharge, take all government property in view and beat it for home.

2. To accept my discharge in a military manner, keeping always on the alert and observing that it will not be revoked before I get out of sight or hearing.

3. To take the quickest train and not stop at any military post on my way home.

4. To repeat all rumors from billets more distant from the headquarters than my own.

5. To receive, believe and pass on to my children all statements that agree with Sherman's idea of war.

6. Not to quit civilian life again after being properly discharged.

7. To talk to no one about enlisting agai.

8. In case of the presence of an enlisting officer, to give the alarm.

9. To allow no military person on or near my premises.

10. In all cases not covered by instructions, to claim exemption.

11. To salute all whiskey, wine and beer not eased.

12. To be especially watchful at night and allow no one to pass without giving me a drink.

Private Charles E. Leblanc and Private Edvn J. Jeanmard our only Selectees for the dear ole state of Louisiana, attended the dance in Starke Saturday night and reported a big time was had by all. This is about the first outing for the boys and they were fascinated by the bewiching Florida beauties.

* * *

Private Patten, one of our new men from Oxford, Miss., is a pretty well read fellow. Yes, he's quite a Bibliophilist, if that's the word.

* * *

Lt. Branton could see how Sgt. Lane could put a regimental insignia on the front of his cap and wear the front of his cap on the back of his head, but he could not quite understand how a fellow could put the insignia on the back of his cap and wear the back of his cap on the front of his head. Sgt. you had better let one of those medicos look you over or get Cora down here one.

* * *

We haven't quite decided what to do with Private Gallahaw—probably shoot him at sunrise for his fifth column doings. He was delivering an important overlay, showing our position in the battle area; and behold he ventured into enemy territory and delivered it to an enemy officer. If it had been real war our whole battalion could have been easily wiped out by hostile artillery fire.

* * *

The prize story of all AWOL's is that of Pvt. Harold McKinney, Anti-Tank Company, 456th Inf. It was all right when McKinney went "over the hill" and it was still OK when he stayed away a number of months. But the height of something was reached a few days ago when a letter was received from McKinney asking for his back pay for the period he'd been gone.

I truthfully believe that the men of this camp have just as good a place to swim in as there is in Florida. Visiting some of the noted beaches I could not see anything about them any better than Kingsley lake beach. The same white sand is on our lake shore and the fresh water is much more clean and clear.

* * *

It seems that Private Cleve Griffin has taken unto himself a bride. Congratulations and best wishes to you and your better half, the former Miss Helen Durham, of Winona.

* * *

The enlisted men of this battery, with the exception of the Selectees, were confined to camp over the week-end. There is nothing like missing a dance you planned to attend, stand up your date and have to abandon all your week-end plans. Or is it? It seems that the Bible speaks of a hot place something like it.

* * *

On the other hand, if the men had had their equipment in the proper shape there would not have been the confinement order. Better shine up your mess equipment before the next display inspection, boys. P. S. yours truly had better too.

* * *

After many weeks of preparation, the big guns of the 114th Field Artillery, the giant 155 mm howitzers, received their first trials at the Artillery Range Thursday and Friday. The noise of the Big Berthas was heard from eighth to five both days. Being in the instrument detail I went forward with the officers directing the fire of these guns. All firing data is computed at this forward observation post, targets assigned and destroyed. It is very interesting and exciting to hear the shells come screaming over head and in a few seconds see a flash of fire and hear the boom of the TNT.

* * *

One of our Selectees made it plain that he would rather go ahead and work than go to the Regimental Dispensary and receive medical attention. Undoubtedly he must have the wrong opinion of our castor oil.

* * *

Private Richard L. Hardage, formerly with the Tri State Transit Company was the luckiest (?) driver for that company as he was the first one called into the service. Those around the Rose Cafe remember Leo.

* * *

Speaking about the army, I've been frantically searching through the classified columns of the Florida Times Union in search of employment; darn it I haven't found a job that I can accept yet.

* * *

Hi, ho, hi, ho, it's back home for these fellows. They're in your midst. Sgt. Chas. Gaston, Sgt. F. E. Tims, Earl E. Litten, Pvt. Jack Cannon, Pvt. Raymon E. Corder, Pvt. D. F. Collins, Pvt. Jean McPhail, Pvt. William Murry, and Pvt. Lloyd Turner.

"Pig" Payne and Quinton Kersh were prepping about with the boxing gloves on Saturday. "Pig" was swinging his right like a mad man, not trying to really hit Kersh, but to the amazement of himself and his adversary he connected with a hard right to the chin that lifted Kersh off the ground and landed him on his "conjunction."

* * *

Upon the request of Private Bryant Thomas I stated in this column that an undesirable number of non-coms quartered in the tent in which he sleeps, tent number 15, claims that it houses five non-coms, pardon me fellows, I really didn't know that you were non-coms, but will take your word for it without looking up your rank on the roster.

ENGINEERS TO ARRIVE LAST OF THIS WEEK FOR SURVEY

Appropriation and approval of the $500.00 for the survey has been completed and the Engineers will be with us the last of this week to start the preliminary survey that will determine or not determine, the feasibility of a city owned light and power plant for the City of Grenada. The arrival of the engineers and their beginning work for this coveted profect does not indicate that we can now sit back with our arms folded and rest the responsibility on their shoulders, the real truth is that our work has just begun and that the underbrush is cleared away for the real battle that we are about to enter and we will need your assistance now more than it has ever been needed and we feel sure that you and you and you will not let us down when you are called on to show your colors. May I casually remind you that this fight is four your benefit as same as the CITIZENS COMMITTEE and all our efforts have been directed toward your interest as same as ours. I keep hearing from good source of the difference in the commercial light bills of various firms this month, these bills seemed to have dropped in price from approximately $6.00 to $20.00 from last month billing with no change of machinery or anything to reason unless it could be an act of strategem to appeal to the consumers for their morale and moral support, it seems logical to me that as hot weather is here the summer bills would be higher than the spring bills to commercial users at least, that has been our case heretofore, until word got out that these Engineers were coming for a recoding of the outrageous electrical rates structures, and charges we are forced to pay. But I am thankful that we now have something to look forward to and work for and that something is a city owned plant that will put the brakes on this high priced electricity and let us use the electricity that we need and not be overcharged every month as we are now. I am proud to know that someone's electrical bill is being reduced, these people that received the "reduction" last month I hope they get the same or better "reduction" next month and on and on but they won't.

Mrs. C. W. Norwood entertained the Home Demonstration Club in her well arranged and beautifully decorated home last Thursday. Miss Foster, Home Demonstration Agent, accompanied by Miss Smith, gave most interesting and instructive demonstrations. Several others also took part in the program after which most delicious refreshments were served.

Mrs. Edd Lynn of Pickens, with her beautiful little daughter returned home Sunday after spending a while with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Wray.

Mrs. A. L. Starks was hostess to the Women of Christian Service at her beautiful home Monday afternoon, that was beautifully decorated with cut flowers and ferns. These socials are looked forward to with much pleasure by all the members and every one has a most enjoyable time at these parties that are given once a month. A program of lively contests, the paying of dues and delectable refreshments.

Rev. and Mrs. H. N. McKibben recently visited their daughter, Mrs. Frank Godwin in Memphis.

Mrs. Rodgers, after spending several weeks with her sister, Mrs. W. C. Webb, returned to her home in Michigan City Sunday. She expects to leave soon on a trip to Canada and many other points of interest. Mrs. Webb is contemplating going with her—some people do have such a good time.

It's bad to be sick (something unusual for us) but it is most awful nice to have friends come to see you and we registered sixty three visitors in twelve days. Dr. Oliver ordered us to go home and go to bed. It's also nice to live so near on the highway that one can recognize those they see passing, and several times did we see this doctor passing, looking as if he owned the world, big ladies man, (woman hater?) without stopping to see if the medicine he prescribed had killed us or not. Anyway we are here and gaining every day.

Miss Emma Wiggins is recuperating from a fall, at the Winona Infirmary. Every one loves Miss Emma and are wishing for her a speedy and complete recovery.

We are most grateful and wish to express our deep appreciation to the Women of Christian Service for a most adorable posy-bedecked nighty of soft rayon crepe and to every one for other thoughtful attention while we were sick.

Miss Grace Norwood is at home after finishing at Sunflower Junior College. Grace gave a good account of herself, being one of the higest honor students of the graduation class.

There is talk of abandoning Champ Blanding. If it is as bad as pictured by some writers, it should be abandoned. Of all the clay in the world, why select a sandy desert, except to pay political debts to some worthy Democrat?

With The County Agent

Many farmers want rain or their crops and many do not. The Great Rain maker can't please us all.

Attended the State-wide Civilian Defense meeting in Jackson this week along with Mrs. T. W. Goodin, John Keeton, Dr. R. A. Clanton and Skeet Futhey. The Defense Commission is urging all farmers to plan now to produce plenty food and feed crops to help the Nation in this war emergency. Committees of farmers will be appointed in each beat of the county in a few days to forward this program.

Farmer William Saunders in Beat Four has his two combines running this week saving hop clover seeds on his farm and Mr. W. F. Martin's farm. He invites all farmers of the county to visit his farm and observe this "New Money Crop" he is saving from his pasture.

Farmer Roger Parker is harvesting some of this "New Money Crop" with his combine from his farm at Graysport. He reports that some of his neighbors are saving these seeds with a lespedeza seed pan. Many of our farmers should harvest some of this "New Money Crop" from their pastures.

Farmer Don Moore from the Oxberry community has the largest cotton observed to date. It is more than twelve inches tall and producing squares.

Mr. Hernando Staten from Oxberry and the Boyle Brothers from Beat 3 believe hogs will bring good prices this winter and are stocking their farms with "feeder pigs."

Farmer Vassar Dubard reports that he has a good stand of cotton, but the dry weather is killing some of his lespedeza and crotolaria.

Lawyer Sam Mims has become interested in improving his farm. He has the "Power Terracing Unit" constructing terraces on his farm. Other work in his community has been planned on the farms of A. L. King, W. H. Saunders, W. F. Martin and J. W. Martin.

Seen, Heard and Told By The Editor

Dr. J. L. Aranzes, a graduate veterinairian, it has been announced, has located in Como at the Maddox House, and is available for service in Grenada.

Grenada is either getting a wonderful bargain in this electric survey or the survey being made will not mean much.

Before we go too far in aiding Britain, we believe the two countries should have some understanding about "what is merica to get." We spent 20 billions in "saving Democracy" in 1917-1918, and it aint saved yet. What does America get in case of victory, should be answered clearly.

Tom Abernethy has begun to nose about a little again. Wonder whose trail he is on.

Our Hollywood subscriber, Dick Rule, is in good standing until June 1942. They say Dick is doing well there, and we are happy about it.

Tomato plants by the acre raised in Grenada, dug up and transplanted in Indiana? Why not raise tomatoes here and can them in our own canning factory? That's one of the objectives of the C. and C.

Clarence Burt went to preaching Sunday.

We tried to get the bunch together Saturday night to help pay Sam Mitchell's expenses on his trip to Grenada from Clarksdale.

Our job work customers were kind enough to keep Harry and Horn busy last week end. Let's make that a weekly custom.

Roy Doak went to preaching Sunday.

We understand our "home" company will be an infinitesimal part of the giant maneuvers to be held at Camp Beauregard the later part of June. Guess they will be glad to exchange sand for pine needles, sage grass and clay.

They say that they have what some call a sweet evening breeze in Jail.

There are entirely too many accidental (?) fires, explosions and other forms of destruction in this country. Strategic industries and bridges should be rigorously guarded. That would be a job for the Home Guard, when or if formed.

The proposed camp site for this county offers at least three indisputable advantages: superior railroad facilites, being on the main line of the L. C.; superior highway facilities, being on U. S. 51 Highway; and a diversified terrain for the training of troops. While some of the land in the proposed area is valuable, most of it is almost without value.

Captain Shaw, while here, raised the devil about not getting the GCW, and we do not blame him, for he paid cash money for it.

Small fines imposed upon bicycle riders who use the sidewalks and those who ignore traffic lights would be helpful.

Graysport postoffice was astounded Friday morning when a big sack filled with GCWs was delivered there. There was, of course, a mix-up somewhere in the routing. Subscribers who receive their papers by railway mail received their papers at least two days late on account of this mix-up. Mistakes occur in the best regulated institutions, including the postoffice.

If it were not for Biddy and his own ability, the ability of his helpers and the variety of machine tools, Grenada would be in a hell of a mess. Free ad.

Will Yarborough, of Oxberry, and Sam Mims, of Grenada have one thing in common, both go to bed with the chickens.

By the way, is Rollen Wall still in the Tower Building.

Wonder if WGRM cannot be induced to move from the swamp to the Cross roads of North Mississippi.

Sam Mitchell said he wished that he could exchange the residential rates he pays for the residential rates he pays locally in Grenada. So this power question must have two sides, at least.

The Todd residence looks a great deal better with its coat of white paint. Congratulations.

Col. Hoffa is right in one thing at least, we have to GIVE to GET.

Ship construction seems to be creating records.

Mrs. Cecil's Pontiac recently pitched on its side, necessitating the filling out of numerous accident reports. Good thanks today.

ANOTHER NEW DEFENSE PLANT FOR MISSISSIPPI

Another new defense industry is announced for Mississippi.

It is a shell box plant which will be operated at Jackson by the W. G. Avery Company. The shell boxes will be manufactured for the Bud Manufacturing Company of Detroit under the national defense program.

The plant will employ 50 persons to begin with but the personnel will be increased to several hundred as soon as production can be stepped up.

The W. G. Avery Company, operators of the new plant, have been manufacturing plywood and body parts for auto plants in Mississippi for a number of years.

Power needs of the new shell box industry will be supplied by Mississippi Power & Light Company.

Fertilizer Profits Low

A ten-year average profit of the fertilizer industry as reported by the Bureau of Internal Revenue shows a return of only one and five one-hundredth cents on a dollar of sales while 32,000 farmers in a recent survey reported a return of $3.60 in increased yields for each dollar spent on fertilizer.

In the last ten years for which figures are available 1929-1938—total fertilizer profits amounted to one and five-hundredths cents for each dollar of sales, or 94 cents on each ton of $26 fertilizer sold.

Figures just released by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue on corporation income tax returns by industries for 1938 shows returns for 374 fertilizer manufacturers. Of this number 161 or 43 per cent reported deficits. The average return for 1938 was 3.6 per cent. The S.E.C. reports returns of 16 large chemical companies not engaged in fertilizer manufacture showed a return of 20.5 per cent.

There is no magic formula

● There is nothing mysterious about the treatment of disease. It is a sound practical procedure. The physician deliberates each individual case, prescribes the remedy indicated. Despite the wild propaganda of the patent medicine vendors, there is no magic formula. In many instances indiscriminate self-medication results in serious harm. Even a minor illness should not be neglected. When you feel "out of sorts" consult a competent physician. Receive the benefits of his years of study. Be sure that he is a licensed M.D. Then bring his prescriptions to us to be filled. If yours is an illness that yields to treatment, prompt recovery will be your reward.

SLACKS--yes!
But CLEAN Slacks

Fashion finally sanctioned the wearing of easy-going slacks. But no one tolerates the wearing of sloppy slacks, soiled slacks, "boat.house" slacks.

Not when it's so inexpensive to keep them crisp and neat, as smartly cared-for as dress trousers!

Enjoy the cool comfort of slacks at every opportunity. But enlist SPOTLESS to keep those slacks respectable--worthy of you--respectful of the company you keep.

Whatever the material, SPOTLESS has the process, method, the pressing equipment, the craftsmen to keep the "swank" in your slacks.

Former Grenadian's Husband Died Thursday

Dr. W. T. Merritt, well known dentist of Jackson, Miss., died last Thursday, May 22, 1941, in a Memphis hospital.

He was the husband of Mrs. Laura Neal Penn Merritt, daughter of Mrs. C. C. Penn of Grenada. He was a native of Holmes county but has lived in Jackson for 50 years. He was 58 years of age.

He took a great interest in Masonry and was once the Potentate of Wahabi Temple, A. A. O. M. S. After serving in the World War he returned to resume his practice in Jackson.

Burial was had in Greenwood cemetery in Jackson Friday. Mrs. Merritt's mother and brother of Grenada attended the funeral.

Attend State Meet

Mesdames E. R. Hallam and A. L. Trotman attended the state convention of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Club at Jackson May 23, 24 and 25th.

Judge Lucy Sommerville Howorth, of Washington, D. C., gave the keynote address, speaking on "Strengthening Democracy for Defense".

Ten resolutions were offered and adopted by the group dealing mainly with the support of national defense, and insistance of no discrimination against women in fields in which they are capable of working.

The state convention will be held in Vicksburg next year.

Mr. B. O. Bibb Dies

Word was received in Grenada Thursday (this) morning of the sudden death of Mr. B. O. Bibb, of Ruleville, brother of Mrs. Arthur Kettle, of Grenada and Mr. Henry Bibb, of Holcomb. Mrs. Kettle and her daughter, Mrs. Sam Brewer, accompanied by Mr. Bibb and his daughter attended the last rites on Thursday afternoon at the Ruleville Cemetery.

Our sympathy is extended to the family.

Seen, Heard and Told By The Editor

We are going to write up our old friend, J. H. West and his hickory mill in "What's Going On In Grenada" one of these weeks pretty soon.

WHAT THE PRESIDENT REALY SAID

ship building plants at Newport News, Virginia; the cities of Washington and Baltimore; and Philadelphia, New York and Boston, in all of which cities large naval bases are located.

The ordinary flat maps of our geographies are very deceptive, and only by referring to a round globe may one appreciate how close to our New England States is the island of Greenland. And great naval battles have taken place this week in Greenland's waters.

From nearby island possessions of France, Spain and Portugal, the Panama Canal could easily be attacked, although I consider it more probable that the Germans and Japanese now have under cover in Costa Rica, Central America, and in Columbia, South America, the actual planes and munitions for powerful attack in the Panama Canal locks.

In any event the world has been given notice that the United States Navy, at the proper time, may be expected to take over such military and naval positions as are deemed to menace our national safety. Also a tremendous and really intensified production of war planes is now to be definitely counted upon for both the United States Air Corps and the British Royal Air Force.

Plants manufacturing aircraft should be in operation twenty-four hours a day every day in the year. To achieve this essential objective technical difficulties with both capital and labor will from now on be dealt with much more drastically. There are many powerful leaders of both capital and labor who will gladly welcome this change.

Expressed simply, our national problem is this. The average man is not patriotic where his own personal interests are concerned. Therefore, when our country faces a military emergency, the prior claims on both the citizens and the material wealth of citizens, must be treated on a basis of equality, in view of our national requirements.

President Roosevelt cannot come out and state the case in such bald terms as this. But the President did say it with that peculiar genius for saying the right thing, in the right way, at the right time, which makes him the idol of his countrymen, and the consternation of those who envy his incomparable ability, sterling integrity, vivid personality, and tremendous power.

Our salute to the Commander-in-chief, Mrs. Allen and I have both worn the insignia of the Regular Army in the Nurse Corps, and in the Air Corps. If our old Uncle Sam, who has used us both so splendidly, can use us again, we will both proudly and cheerfully don our uniforms once more. A country that is worth living in is worth fighting for. E Pluribus Unum.

Holcomb Baptists Revival In Progress

Evening services and the subsequent services in the revival were and will be conducted by Rev. O. B. Beverly.

In the 1941 graduating class of the University of Mississippi there will be six graduates from Grenada county; B. C. Adams, Jr., Law; Judson J. Fite, B. A. E.; Auguste Gerard, B. A.; Frank C. Horton, Law; Robert W. Sharp, Jr., B. A. and Miss Ruby Taylor, B. S. C., and Miss Martha Bess Brown.

SWEET POTATO GROWERS WANTED.

Must apply to Plant Board for certification before June 15.

All sweet potato growers who expect to sell, exchange or give away seed sweet potatoes or plants next season are reminded that their application for these inspections must be sent to the State Plant Board at State College before June 15, accompanied by an advance deposit of fifty cents for the purchase of potato tags and certificate tape.

This rule applies to all growers whether they have been previously certified or not.

In making application for the inspections, the growers are requested to give the exact location of their farms and the acreage in potatoes to be inspected.

Inspection requests which are received after June 15 will be turned down as it is necessary that the Plant Board inspectors start on these inspections by the middle of June so they will be completed before frost. Two or more field inspections are required with an interval of a month or more between them.

SOCIETY EDITORS NOTE

The tale about the antique China originated in the family of Mrs. Robert Sharp, according to Mrs. Andrew Carothers and not in her (Mrs. Carothers) family. In the confusion of events, Mr. Allen, to whom the tale was told, and who later wrote of it in this issue, thought that it was Mrs. Carothers' sisters experience with an old darky.
